"I am in favor of the repeal of the breeder's law, absolutely and without compromise. The racing game has now reached the most vicious stage, and it would be well for the community to have a rest. At least the law ought to be amended to restrict the aggregate racing season on all tracks in St. Louis to $5 a book, and the law should be altered so as to prevent monopolization of racing by—the Western Jockey club. I have in my titles any number of appeals from fathers and mothers and wives and sisters asking that something be done to stop gambling in St. Louis. In one instance I have letters from every member of the family with reference to a son and brother who recently was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. His downfall started with the races at the Delmar track, and he wound up in the state prison.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 7.—According to Harvard's baseball schedule, six games, including two with Georgetown, one extra with Andover and those with Virginia, Maine, Exeter and Carlisle, have been dropped, and five, Including Columbia, Cornell. Syracuse, Lehigh and an extra one with Trinity, have been added. Georgetown undoubtedly was dropped because of her prejudice toward Matthews, the little colored shortstop. Two years ago she refused to play Harvard with Matthews in the crimson batting list. Last year Matthews-stayed at home from the Southern trip and Harvard olst. Harvard also objected to the professional aspect of the Georgetown team. Paris, Feb. 7.—The sixth game in the chess match between Frank J. Marshall of Brooklyn and D. Janowski of Paris resulted in a draw after fifty-two moves. The score is now: Marshall, 2; Janowski, 2; drawn, 2.

Park City, Feb. 7.—A young German he name of Blocm, about 17 years ge, was found yesterday morning be became invested with all the powers in this particular case that the regular district judge would have in a case where he was not disqualified.

Therefore, his acts on Jan. 4 in continuing the case to Feb. 6 were as regular and legal as if performed by the regular district judge. The fact that he held an informal session in chambers, Jan. 4, when the regular term of the court for this county did not begin till Jan. 5, did not, in his judgment, invalidate the proceedings. He was commanded to appear in Washington, Jan. 16, the very date when the original was set for, and it was a physical impossibility to appear in both places, hence he had a right to make a reasonable and convenient arrangement for further prorenient arrangement for future.

At the informal hearing had Jan. 4 he remembered that the contestant, Hamer, was represented by an attorney (Mr. Pratt), and that the present counsel for Judge Howell was present, but that he informed the court that the defendant would not admit anything that might imply that jurisdiction was acknowledged; that he used the expression, in explana-BOY SERIOUSLY WOUNDED.

He and two other young men, his brother George and Albert Ward, were shooting at a can with a shotgun. Albert was at the target, placing the can in position, and the other two boys, with the gun, were waiting for him to get the can placed. The gun exploded and a large part of the shot entered Albert's body above and in the left lung. How the gun was fired is uncertain, as the boys who had it cannot make any clear explanation. It is believed that it was looked and that a defective trigger caused it to explode. The wounded boy was taken to the Provo General hospital and, while the wound is considered a very serious one, hopes are entertained of his recov-
